Walk Right In, Sit Right Down: It's Time For Women To Lead

As Leading Women co-author Gloria Feldt points out in her book, No Excuses, it is time to take action. From the boardroom to public office to personal relationships, the major factor keeping women from parity is - themselves! Many women are opting out of the very career paths that could result in gender equality within a decade or two if these women kept climbing the workforce ladder. It is time to lead, and together we can push the doors to equal opportunity wide open, making room for our sisters at the table.

Danna Beal Heals the Workplace Culture

Workplace culture expert Danna Beal has spoken to over 300 companies to help them see how cut-throat, fear-based management exercises artificial power that burdens employees with stress and unsustainable output expectations. Instead, Danna promotes enlightened leadership that recognizes and honors the talents of their employees and realizes that people have their own issues away from work that must be addressed. Some companies are doing it.
